

TAKE PART IN BRAIN RESEARCH!

ATTENTION: PARENTS OF CHILDREN AGES 8 TO 12:

We are recruiting children to participate in a behavioral research study to learn if movement-based Tai Chi training will affect both behavior and brain function in kids with ADHD

- WHO: CHILDREN WITH ADHD
- WHAT: 2 days, approximately 7 hours each, of computer games, paper & pencil tasks, Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation (TMS), MRI, and an EEG. Free IQ testing and report and 8 weeks of Tai Chi classes!
- WHERE: Kennedy Krieger Institute
- BENEFIT: There are minimal risks and no direct medical benefits for participating in this research study.
- COMPENSATION: $100.00
- CONTACT: Amos Jeng: 443-923-9268
CNIR@kennedykrieger.org

Stewart H. Mostofsky, M.D.: Principal Investigator
Protocol Number: IRB00040084

Kennedy Krieger Institute, Johns Hopkins Medical Institutions
Research funded by the National Institutes of Health and the Johns Hopkins General
Clinical Research Center